Staanworth Court officially opened

A 22 unit senior citizens apartment complex on Prentice Street in Minden was officially opened last Wednesday by Ontario's housing minister, Claude Bennett.

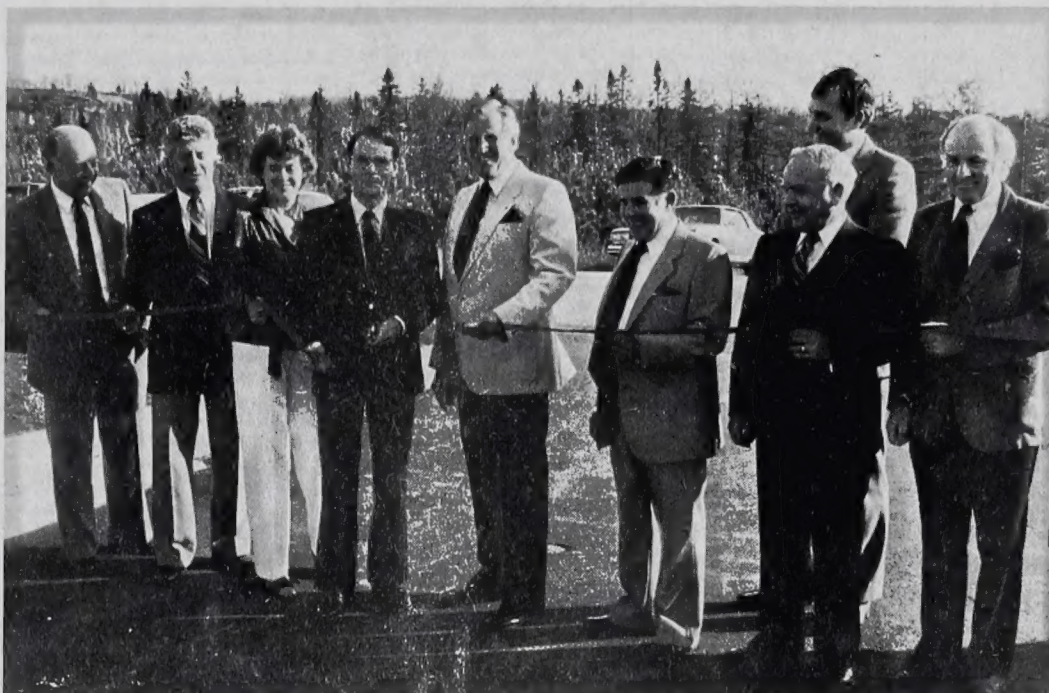

The project is a joint effort of the province and the Staathworth non-profit housing corporation representing the townships of Stanhope and Lutterworth and the municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden.

Accepting the keys to the new building from Staathworth chairman Ed Pergolas on behalf of the tenants was Alex Stevenson, formerly of Stanhope Township who praised the committee for its efforts in providing much needed housing for area senior citizens.

Custodian managers of the new building are Hector and Corinne Arsenaault.

HAVE concert a success

Local musicians help support drilling campaign

The local Help A Village Effort (HAVE) committee raised more than $600 on Saturday night through voluntary contributions at a concert held at Haliburton high school.

Called the Haliburton Artists Variety Evening, the annual concert features the talents of local musicians and singers. This year's version was made particularly noteworthy by the musical efforts of Cathy Kinsman, Dick Stouffer and Will Sherwood who performed original songs and compositions for flute, keyboard and percussion.

Also on hand to entertain an enthusiastic audience were the popular Highlands Dixie Band of Charles 'Slim' Brandon, piano; Glen Carter, trombone; Bill Donnelly, drums; Ken Hadley, clarinet and tenor saxophone; Sean Saunders, bass; and Rick Vaughan, trumpet.

Track Four, Haliburton's own barbershop quartet also set toes tapping with their renditions of perennial favourites. Quartet members are Glen Carter, Ken Hadley, John Miller and Rick Vaughan.

Funds raised through the concert will be used by the HAVE committee to assist with well drilling projects in impoverished rural areas of India.

The organization's other main fund-raising project is a Walk for Wells which was held for the first time last June, and which is expected to be repeated next year.

Police ask for help on breakins

A number of breakins were reported throughout Haliburton County during the past week and are currently under investigation by Minden OPP.

Thieves entered a South Lake cottage by forcing a window and stole a television, antique clock and other items valued at $600. In Lutterworth Township a storage shed was entered and chainsaws, a generator and other items valued at $1500 were reported missing. A window was smashed at an Eagle Lake area cabin and a television, generator and other items valued at $550 were taken. In the West Guilford area, thieves smashed a window in a door to gain entry to a house and then stole food and appliances valued at $400. A window was also smashed at a Miskwabi Lake cottage and a chainsaw and other items valued at $400 were taken. Three cottages at the South end of Kushog Lake were damaged in breakins but police do not yet know what was stolen. Doors and windows were forced to gain entry to three cottages at Eagle Lake but as yet there is no indication of what was taken. Thieves also entered Minden Fruit Market and stole bottled drinks. An attempted breaking occurred at a Minden area restaurant as well, but entry was not gained.

Police describe break and enter as "the most perplexing crime" they have to deal with. Despite the fact that the thieves are caught in almost half of all breakins reported to Minden OPP, the number of breakins occurring throughout the county has not diminished.

Police say the most common type of break and enter crimes occur in semi-isolated areas where the criminal feels his chances of detection are slim. In such areas, people should be more observant of strangers and take note of vehicle descriptions and license numbers, local OPP say.

"One of the recent breakins occurred at the home of a full-time resident and took place while the occupants were out of the house for an afternoon" according to public services officer Gary Chapman, who says the crime is considered so serious that the law proscribes a maximum penalty of life imprisonment for anyone found guilty of breaking into a dwelling.

"Some victims feel a very personal indignity has been committed when their home has been entered

Snow asked to initiate road plans

Area MPP John Eakins has challenged provincial transportation minister James Snow to bring forward a five-year plan to reverse a decline in the quality of municipal and provincial roads.

Speaking during question period in the legislature, Eakins said a recently published report of The Road Information Program of Canada (TRIP) indicates that 61 percent of Ontario's paved municipal road system will need resurfacing or reconstruction over the next five years.

"This is on top of the 2000 kilometres of the province's highways that are already below the ministry's standards. Over the next five years another 7000 kilometres of these highways will also need resurfacing and reconstruction," Eakins said.

In calling on the minister to come up with a plan to deal with the problem, Eakins noted that provincial funding in real dollars for road repairs and subsidies has been reduced and that tender calls for road construction are down by almost $50 million compared with last year.

However, Snow refused to concede that the province's roads are in serious decline. He said the TRIP report indicates that only eight percent of Ontario's highways need resurfacing while in some other provinces the total approaches 60 percent.

As for the plight of municipalities struggling to cope with rising road maintenance and reconstruction costs, Snow said local governments will have to set their own priorities on spending road subsidy money provided by the province.

"We work with them and we advise them. But we happen to believe in local autonomy and in letting local municipalities make that decision," Snow said.

Haliburton County warden Lyle McKnight lays a wreath during a Remembrance ceremony held in Minden on Sunday afternoon. Rain forced cancellation of a planned march by Legion members to the community's cenotaph.

Former warden dies

Robert Fotheringham held office for 18 years

Robert Fotheringham, an 18-year veteran of Glamorgan Township council and the man who served as warden of the Provisional County of Haliburton during preparations for its 1974 centennial year, has died at the age of 66. Fotheringham died last Wednesday in Haliburton Hospital after a long illness.

A baker by trade, he was employed for 24 years in Toronto and 14 years in Fenelon Falls.

He was elected to Glamorgan Township council in 1962 and served as a councillor until 1968, deputy reeve from 1969 to 1972, and reeve from 1973 until November 1980.

He was warden of Haliburton County in 1973 and a keen participant in county affairs until ill health forced him to step down from local politics.

In 1980 he was honoured by council and staff of the municippality for his 18 years of service to the community.

During his term as warden of the county, a decision was made to assist with the publication of Nila Reynolds' history of Haliburton County, 'In Quest of Yesterday'. Fotheringham's message and picture appear on one of the book's opening pages. He also wrote the introductory message for the second edition of Theo Peacock's book of poetry 'Tales of the Trail' published in 1974.

He was a member of Gooderham United Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Norma Whitcombe, one son, Leslie, and a brother, David of Bramalea.

Funeral services were held in Gooderham United Church on Saturday afternoon. Maurice Bradley officiated. Interment was in Glamorgan cemetery.

Theo Peacock to get medal

Theo Peacock, the "Haliburton Trapper" whose book of poetry 'Tales of the Trails' has been popular with visitors and local residents for more than 10 years, has been awarded a Bicentennial medal from the Province of Ontario.

Peacock, who resides in Gooderham, was nominated for the award by Glamorgan Township council in recognition of the fact that proceeds from the sale of 'Tales of the Trail' have been donated to the Glamorgan Township library over the years.

The medal will be presented early in December.

Enrollment is tallied

Official enrolment figures for grant purposes have been released by the Haliburton County Board of Education. The figures indicate the number of students attending local schools on September 30.

Enrolment at Archie Stouffer elementary school in Minden stood at 419.5 on that date, including 53 kindergarten students who attend half time.

Cardiff elementary had 101.5 students on September 30, including seven kindergarten students.

Enrolment at Dorset school is 20, with four kindergarten students.

Gooderham elementary school has 28 students, of whom four are in kindergarten.

Enrolment at J. Douglas Hodgson elementary school in Haliburton was 424 on September 30.

Victoria Street school in Haliburton has 113.5 students, including 49 youngsters in Kindergarten.

Enrolment at Wilberforce elementary school is 48.5, with 15 kindergarten students.

A total of 604 students were registered at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School on September 30.

The boards also provides programs for eleven mentally retarded youngsters, for a total enrolment of 1,770 students around the county.

Northern schools win favour

The Victoria County Board of Education has approved a 1985 capital forecast that includes the cost of building new schools in Cobocok and Kirkfield to serve the northern area of the county.

The decision was made at a meeting of the board October 24 following the defeat of a series of proposed amendments which would have delayed construction of the Kirkfield school and reduced the size of the proposed new school for Cobocok.

Earlier, the board's ad hoc committee on the northern schools issue had presented a report urging that a decision be made without further study or delay.

Estimated cost of the new schools will be included in the board's 1985 request for funds from the provincial education ministry.

The Cobocok school would replace facilities in that community and accommodate students from Norland, Kinmount and Burnt River. The Kirkfield school would replace an existing school which is considered inadequate to meet the needs of public school students in the area.

Minden council minutes

At its October 25 meeting, Anson, Hindon and Minden council considered the following matters.

Chris Niles, group leader for the Minden Katimavik program, was in attendance to inform council of the particulars concerning the Acid Rain Conference to be held on November 2, 3 and 4, 1984, in Minden. Niles also requested council's financial assistance regarding rental costs of the Minden Community Centre for this event.

Council agreed to absorb the community centre rental costs for the Katimavik acid rain conference on the weekend of November 3, 1984, in the amount of $345. (Cost to be borne by the administration grant account).

A delegation from the Minden Lawn Bowling Club, comprised of president Alberta Maitland, past president Don Sinclair, and member Jim Burton, were in attendance to request council's assistance in arranging for some security regarding their future use of the old curling club building. (The building is presently leased to the Lawn Bowlers for the next two years by the Minden Agricultural Society, which body presently administers this building. A short history of the club was presented, as well as details regarding the club's contributions toward the physical improvement of the building. A challenge was made to council to explore ways to assist seniors' activities in our town, and an invitation was extended to all members to attend at the club and become more familiar with its ongoing activities. Reeve Lyle McKnight suggested that a meeting be arranged with representatives from the municipality, the agricultural society and the Minden Lawn Bowling Club with a view to arranging a mutually agreeable administration policy for this building.

Councillor Gary Kenney reported on the progress made to date by the organizers of the Haliburton sled dog derby. He confirmed that in addition to support from council, the Chamber of Commerce, the Haliburton Snowmobile Association, the Minden Business Improvement Area, as well as many local individuals, have extended their support to the derby. He indicated that numerous planning meetings with the OPP and other agencies will be held in the near future to assure crowd and traffic control as well as general safety and public access. Stuart Brandon, representing the Minden BIA, requested that council make an immediate decision to support in principle the decision to hold a downtown race start so that all general questions regarding sponsorship can be resolved.

Kenney confirmed that a ten-foot strip of the road would be required commencing at Cox's Apparel and extending northward along the Bobcaygeon Road to Dr. Purc's office site, at which point the proposed course would leave the municipal road. He also confirmed that the only section of the road proposed for closure during race times would be that section of the main street from Cox's Apparel to Vasey Real Estate. Flagmen would be positioned on both sides of the bridge over the Gull River to control and direct the flow of traffic to and from South and North Water Street onto the Bobcaygeon Road. He stressed that at no time would access to properties located along the proposed race route be restricted.

A discussion ensued concerning the need for snow to be placed on the 10 foot strip of road during race times in case no natural snow fall occurred. Councillor Kenney confirmed that the organizers would be responsible for the transport of any required snow to the site as well as its subsequent removal immediately after the races. The members of council agreed to support this proposal in principle provided that all necessary arrangements to ensure safety, traffic flow and access to property are

Remembering the 17th Regiment: a vital job

Marshall Leighton has not forgotten reconnaissance patrols

The rituals of Remembrance Day are far removed in time and place from the battles and sacrifice they are meant to recall. To anyone much younger than 60, the solemn marches to local cenotaphs, the wreath laying and the playing of the last post are a matter more of tradition and obligation than of recollection.

But among the long lines of Royal Canadian Legion members who stride down main street with military precision to wait in wind and snow while the rolls of honour are read, there are dozens of men who know what war is; men who lived with fear, saw death at first hand and are determined to remember.

One such local man is Marshall Leighton of Haliburton. He landed on D day, fought in the front lines of the Allied advance through France, Belgium, Holland and Germany, and came home to build a successful life.

He was living in Toronto when the war broke out, one of five brothers who eventually saw action overseas and survived the conflict. He joined the Montreal Regiment of the 17th Duke of York's Royal Canadian Hussars. It was a bilingual group, a fact which would be of great importance later when the regiment carried out reconnaissance work along the route of the Allied advance.

After reconnaissance training at Dundurn, Saskatchewan, Marshall Leighton was posted to England, and in January 1944 he joined the regiment for extensive training to prepare for the invasion of Europe.

On June 6, 1944, he landed with infantry men in a support role on the beaches of Bernieres-sur-mer. The fighting had been underway since dawn, but even at 4 p.m. when the armoured vehicles rolled off the landing craft into eight or nine feet of water and churned onto the stoney beaches, there were hundreds of ships steaming just off shore, waiting to unload fresh waves of infantry and equipment.

Key tasks

The men of the 17th Duke of Yorks had two key jobs on D. Day. One was to facilitate pathways and exits to get vehicles off the beaches and into less exposed positions, and the other was to act as radio men and message carriers, keeping commanders behind the lines informed about the progress of battle.

Once the beachhead had been firmly established and the buildup of equipment and supplies was running smoothly, the regiment got its first major reconnaissance assignment. The 3rd Canadian Infantry Division was set to attack Carpiquet airfield three or four miles inland from the Normandy beaches, but no one knew how well it was defended. An armoured car patrol was sent in to draw the enemy's fire and pinpoint the position of guns. They did the job without casualties and brought back vital information which contributed to the eventual success of the attack on Carpiquet.

A close call

So intense was the action in those early days of the invasion that there was no time even to change clothes. Marshall Leighton recalls with some amusement the day, two or three weeks after the initial landing, when new uniforms became available to the reconnaissance regiment. Eight showers were set up and the men threw their dirty clothes in a heap before filing through. A German fighter pilot chose that moment for a strafing run. As the shells from his wing guns ripped into the ground, the men scattered

Those patrols into unknown territory were a time of fear and danger for the men of the 'recce' regiment.

"You didn't know what was ahead of you," Leighton recalls. As a driver of one of the armoured cars, he peered through a narrow slit that could be closed entirely when the vehicle came under attack. Although they were equipped with ack ack guns and were thick enough to withstand the impact of a 20 mm shell, heavier guns brought death to many men on reconnaissance patrol.

A risky job

As the advance continued, the while. Everybody did".

Occasionally the reconnaissance patrol would be ordered to find bridges which had not been destroyed and could support the weight of vehicles and equipment. One such patrol took Leighton to the Somme River south of Abbeville. Driving the lead car, he approached a concrete bridge which the Germans were known to be defending. A small tank waited at one end of the bridge, as it poised to cross. Leighton's patrol was about to radio back for assistance in destroying the bridge when the tank exploded, taking part of the bridge out with it. Apparently the Germans decided to cut the link over the river when it became clear that the Allies were seeking a way across. But a patrol of the area revealed a small bridge behind a factory that enabled the whole regiment to move on.

At that point the advance speeded up and by early September Calais was reached. The regiment then pushed on into Belgium, where a fierce battle raged for control of the Leopold canal.

Stalemate

The winter of 1944-45 was spent on the banks of the Waal River.

"We were in a holding pattern" Marshall Leighton recalls. The Germans were on the other side in a town called Teel, and every once in a while they would don winter camouflage and come across the ice to fight minor skirmishes. But the battles were a stalemate.

In the spring of 1945 the final push began. On March 27 the regiment crossed the Rhine, and by early May they had reached Leer on the North Sea coast of Germany. They were heading for Aurich when word came that the war was over. Tragically, two men who had fought with Marshall Leighton all the way from D Day were killed only 15 minutes before the cease fire was officially declared.

Of the 35 men who made up the troop in which Leighton fought, 22 were killed and more than that number wounded between D day and the war's end. He was himself wounded slightly by shrapnel.

Home again

On December 8, 1945, Marshall Leighton disembarked from the liner Queen Elizabeth in New York and took a train back to Toronto, where he was met by his wife Helen and other members of his family. The war was over, and it was time to return to a normal life.

But Marshall Leighton has never forgotten those years with the reconnaissance regiment. He has a scrapbook of pictures taken in Europe, a book recounting the official history of the regiment, and every year he attends reunions in Montreal where the surviving members recall old times and enjoy the opportunities for food and fellowship that peace affords.

And on Remembrance Day Marshall Leighton joins other veterans in that march to the cenotaph, a march with a meaning that the years have yet to lessen.

From D Day to VE Day to take cover in a nearby river. No one was hit, and they were soon outfitted with clean uniforms and back on the job.

Initially the 'recce' regiment, as it was known, would advance to hold positions that had been taken by infantrymen while the main tide of battle swept on ahead. But the regiment was soon moving out to gauge the enemy's strength as the fighting advanced inland from village to farmhouse to village and then east and north toward Rouen, Abbeville and Calais.

regiment settled into a pattern of duty that seldom varied. The armoured cars, troop carriers, and assault carriers would be ordered to meet in a certain place at a specific time. Once there, they would receive orders spelling out where their reconnaissance mission was to take them.

"Sometimes it was good, and sometimes it was no good at all," Leighton recalls. "A couple of men would get killed or a couple wounded and you'd think 'you're next'. And you had to fight that for a

Marshall Leighton, on the right, is shown in front of one of the armoured reconnaissance vehicles he operated. The picture was taken while the 17th Regiment was waiting to cross the Rhine River en route to Germany.

This picture was taken somewhere in Germany in 1945. It shows Marshall Leighton standing on the carriage of an 88 mm field gun. Note the shell resting against the mechanism.

Authority earns record profit

Sales of timber harvested in Algonquin Park increased by 30 percent to almost $9 million, in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1984, according to the annual report of the Algonquin Forestry Authority.

Of the total, slightly more than $2 million is the result of extensive timber salvage operations undertaken after a wind storm on August 8, 1983 blew down prime timber on a 5000 hectare tract south of the Petawawa River.

The abnormally high volume of timber available for sale as a result of the salvage operation generated a net income of $297,051, compared with $3,430 of net income in the more normal year of 1982-83, according to the annual report.

Harvest in the park increased by 11.9 percent or 43,760 cubic metres to 409,210 cubic metres.

Softwood lumber sales remained strong throughout the Authority's fiscal year, stimulating softwood saw log demand enough to absorb the entire volume of salvaged timber.

Modest strengthening of hardwood lumber markets late in the year boosted hardwood saw log production by 22,880 cubic metres or 30 percent over the previous year.

Sales of hardwood veneer logs declined to 8,560 cubic metres, some 30 percent under the previous year's level, but this is said to be the result of forest stand conditions rather than a decline in the market.

Pole sales increased by 69 percent to 10,580 cubic metres as a result of the timber blowdown and salvage operation.

In the area of forest management, expenditures exceeded revenues, resulting in a loss of $16,188.

For the 1984-85 fiscal year the Authority plans to produce some 440,000 cubic metres of saw logs, an increase of nine percent over the previous year. Completion of the blowdown salvage will account for 90,000 cubic metres of the total.

Total sales of $9.5 million are forecast for 1984-85.

The Algonquin Forestry Authority was established by the Ontario government in 1975 to manage the park's timber resources. Algonquin Park is the source of timber for eleven sawmills, four veneer mills, one pole plant, one pulp mill and one match splint plant.

A bitter lesson

As the strike that has paralyzed Ontario's community colleges continues, and the prospect of a settlement appears no closer, the likelihood that students will lose their year looms large. A number of local young people are among those who have returned home to await a solution to the conflict between instructors and the colleges' board of regents. These young people had high hopes that post secondary education would open new doors, but some of them may find their hopes dashed if the strike drags on past six weeks. The unfortunate fact is that some students will not return to school when college classes resume later this year or some time in 1985. Some may not have enough money to do so. Others may have become too discouraged to continue.

None of this should have been allowed to happen in a time when unemployment and disaffection are reaching crisis proportions. It could have been avoided in a number of ways, and no party in the dispute is without blame for the fact that a strike was called.

The college teachers were in a legal position to strike, and chose that course of action when they were unable to detect any spirit of compromise. Salaries are not the issue. Rather the instructors maintain that class sizes have grown too large, workloads too great, and that the quality of education offered to young people is being eroded as a result. For their part, the college board of regents is handicapped by the mood of restraint that the province professes but does not always practise. Money simply has not been available to hire more instructors and keep class sizes manageable.

Two steps should have been taken before the dispute ever got to the disruptive stage it has now reached. Firstly, the province should have made the decision that if it is going to stick to its aim of providing post secondary educational opportunities to anyone who wants them, it must be prepared to spend what is necessary to provide that education. If it wants to keep tuition fees low enough that almost anyone can afford them, then it must provide money to make up the difference between costs and fees.

Secondly, provision should have been made for impartial, binding arbitration. While this would be an erosion of an important freedom, there is reason to argue that teaching is an essential service that must not be interrupted.

The strike will, no doubt, be seen as an important lesson by both sides. Unfortunately the students are caught in the middle. And the lesson they are learning is neither a happy nor fair one.

Well done

The official opening of the Staanworth Court senior citizens apartments in Minden is good news for area seniors. The 22-unit, one-storey building will enable many people to live fuller, richer and happier lives than might otherwise have been possible. It is an example of tax money well spent.

It is also a testament to the hard work and dedication of a number of area citizens, some of whom hold political office and others of whom serve in private capacities. Members of the board of the Staanworth Non Profit Housing Corporation which made the building possible were paid nothing for the time they have spent on board business. And they will continue to fulfill their role without any remuneration whatsoever. In a time when the spirit of volunteerism appears to be waning, their efforts deserve recognition from the community and a vote of thanks.

Letters to the Editor

Success and failure in the hunt for deer

To the Editor:

It is the time of year when my heart goes out to the hunters.

They go into camp with high hopes of coming out with venison. They will hit unerringly and bring down their deer at a blow. At least they will sight innumerable deer.

Alas! None of this comes true. The only deer sighted are does, and no one in the camp has this special licence, so the dear little things bound joyously off into the woods. Up to 10 females of the species are sighted in one day. Imagine the gnashing of teeth as hunters hear of the camp next door, equipped with four doe licences, having achieved their kill.

The next day the hunters sight some bucks, but too far away to shoot at. Only one hunter gets a shot away and misses the only buck he is to see all week. The razzing he gets from the gang at the supper table is only accentuated by the sympathy extended to him surreptitiously by his grandmother, the cook. Yes, "my heart is in the highlands a-chasing the deer", just not catching any.

The assassination of Indira Gandhi at the hands of two Sikh bodyguards may seem an event of little consequence to most Canadians, occurring as it did in a country half way around the world. But for me the initial news reports and the follow-up stories of attacks on Sikhs throughout the country rekindled memories of 10 days spent exploring the old and new parts of Delhi and the city of Agra, location of the Taj Mahal.

India is a land of staggering contrasts - a place of beauty and suffering, of conspicuous wealth and terrifying poverty, of brave hopes and utter hopelessness. Even a brief bus ride between two airports in Bombay is an overwhelming experience. The dusty, rutted streets throng with an endlessly moving sea of humanity. Emaciated water buffalo hitched to wooden carts plot among careering Mercedes Benz automobiles, motorcycle taxis and bicycle rickshaws. Battered buses spew clouds of black smoke. Riders cling from windows and sprawl on rooves. In open city blocks of mud and slimy water, tiny shelters of wood and tin are home for thousands of jobless and disaffected people who flock to the city in search of a better life. Their existence is squalid, their poverty so haunting that you want to turn your eyes away. Yet they are luckier than others in this land of 300 million people. If they live long enough their country may become a place of cleaner water, more food, and less disease.

But for many people in India, hope died long before the assassins' bullets struck down Indira Gandhi. For them there are no tin shacks. There is only the wretchedness of the filthy streets where they sleep, beg and scavenge for food, or merely stare with blank eyes at a world without meaning or purpose.

In Delhi we saw people who lived in bus shelters in front of huge houses guarded by wrought iron gates. At night these same people huddled around open fires on broad boulevards that were laid out on the days of the British Raj. Seated in the air-conditioned luxury of hotel restaurants, we watched nately dressed Indian businessmen and their elegant wives eat tandoori chicken with fingers ringed in gold while only blocks away we knew an old man lay half-naked and apparently dying, on a traffic island in the midst of a teeming city.

As others see it

Canadians have had, since the dawn of our nation, 117 years ago, three basic aspirations: peace, freedom and security.

We have stood and will continue to stand for all three.

It has been said, however, that peace is the dream of the wise; war, the history of man.

Three times

Three times this century, Canadians went off to war to fight for these aspirations.

In 1914, the youthful Canada stood beside the aging British Empire as it faced the most imposing threat ever to its way of life.

It was a time when Canada was ready to blossom into nationhood and the freedom of Europe was threatened by war.

From villages, towns and cities, from schools, factories and offices came Canadians of every background to answer their country's call. They did so again in 1939 and in 1950.

They went overseas to wars which many of them knew little about. They went to serve Canada, to ensure her security and freedom, and with it, the security and freedom of the entire world.

Our soldiers experienced the fire of battle at St. Julien and Ypres in 1915 and the Somme in 1916. They fought at Vimy in 1917 and at Arras in 1918 as well as at many other places. There was unimaginable suffering and loss. But ultimately there was victory, and with victory came a new sense of nationhood. A stronger, more independent Canada emerged.

However Canada's gain in stature and dignity in the world community was made at great personal cost. By 1918, thousands of homes were touched by the seemingly endless arm of death.

Thousands more still were struck with the loneliness of suffering, the loss and the grief in another, more terrible war a mere 21 years later.

Men and women from all parts of Canada joined the proud Canadian Army, the Royal Canadian Navy and the Royal Canadian Air Force to fight in the Second World War.

They served until 1945. Finally, the threat to world freedom was no more.

The cost of war has been tremendous: 66,655 men and women gave their lives in the First World War, 44,893 in the Second World War and yet another 516 in Korea. Tens of thousands more were wounded.

Standing together in two world wars and in Korea, we showed the world what kind of people Canadians are; what we believe in and what we would die for.

The acts of faith and courage of our veterans and our war dead are part of the story of Canada's development. They gave all they could to help build a better life for Canada and the rest of the world.

November 11 is a day for remembering this sacrifice. We will not forget it. We are committed, as Canadians, to make real the dreams of those men and women who have fought and died to build a better world.

A better world

But if we in Canada are to make good use of the opportunity to build a better world, there must be a deeper striving for a basic national unity.

There must also be a more vital awareness of Canada's place in the world and there must be support for closer harmony among nations.

We have three wars and the heroes of three generations to remember today. We also have a future to confront.

Our prayer should be that we try to fulfil the dreams for which these Canadians served, fought and died.

BEATTY WON'T BE AS TAXING

It shouldn't be a case of deja vu.

But there are probably a few Cambridge residents who experienced some sleepless nights - even nightmares - this past week after hearing that Revenue Minister Perrin Beatty was going to order a crackdown on the large number of Canadians who haven't been doing their duty.

No, the MP from our neighbouring riding of Wellington-Dufferin Perth isn't talking about the few among us that may have not voted for Brian Mulroney's Progressive Conservatives in the federal election.

He's talking about those who owe $3.5 billion in back taxes. That's a lot of money - about 10 per cent of the total deficit - and it affects us all since the taxpayers must eventually make up the difference.

Among the tardy taxpayers, no doubt, are the owners of some local businesses. Perhaps the number may include some of the area firms that felt the heavy breath of tax collectors from the Kitchener district office on the back of their necks while trying to keep their debt-ridden companies afloat during the stormy recession.

But Beatty assures us he and his crew will be fair in their treatment of the dreaded tax evaders who are harbored among us.

And after he and Cambridge MP Chris Speyer took Liberal revenue minister Pierre Bussieres to

Two successive wins, Emmerson team leads

Emmerson Lumber has jumped into an early season lead in the Haliburton men's recreational hockey league on the strength of two wins and no defeats. Emmerson moved into top spot by edging out Bishop and Wilson 7 - 6 Monday night. The surveyors are tied for second place with a win and a loss. Haliburton Lumber also has one win and one loss, coming back from a season opening defeat at the hands of Bishop and Wilson to take Curry Motors 12 - 3 on Monday. That left the motormen winless for two games and holding down fourth spot.

Haliburton Lumber was devastating in the opening game Monday night, surging to an 8 - 0 third period lead before Curry Motors players could get on the board.

Joe Roberts had five goals for the night, while Kevin Newell netted three.

Dean Curry opened the scoring at 3:09 of the first period on an unassisted play, and he teamed up with Roberts later in the period to make it 2 - 0 for the lumbermen.

Roberts scored again near the midway point of the second period with help from Paul Morissette and Wayne Ellison. Ellison then made it 4 - 0 on a three-way play from Kevin Newell and Dean Curry.

With 1:58 left to play in the second period, Roberts completed the hat trick with help from Morissette and Eric Edwards.

The onslaught continued in the third period as Paul Morissette scored at 3:54 with help from Edwards to make it 6 - 0. Seconds later, Joe Roberts netted his fourth goal, assisted by Steve Cooper and Morissette. At the five-minute mark, Kevin Newell tallied with help from Roberts and the lumbermen were in front 8 - 0.

Curry Motors finally got on track at 6:26 of the third period when Wells Robertson connected from Gary Brohman to spoil Vince Duchene's shutout hopes. Less than a minute later Willie Greber scored unassisted to make it 8 - 2.

But Haliburton Lumber was not content to hang back in their own end and continued to run up the score. Steve Cooper pushed the score to 9 - 2 with help from Morissette at the 7:23 mark, and at 8:48 Kevin Newell connected from Morissette and Curry to move the score into two figures.

The motormen's final goal came with 7:29 left on the clock as Wells Robertson scored with help from Roy Scott.

With a minute and a half left on the clock Joe Roberts got his fifth goal of the night, aided by Morissette, and with 1:08 to play, Newell completed his hat trick, helped by Morissette and Wayne Ellison.

Four penalties were assessed in the game, one to Curry Motors and three to the Lumbermen.

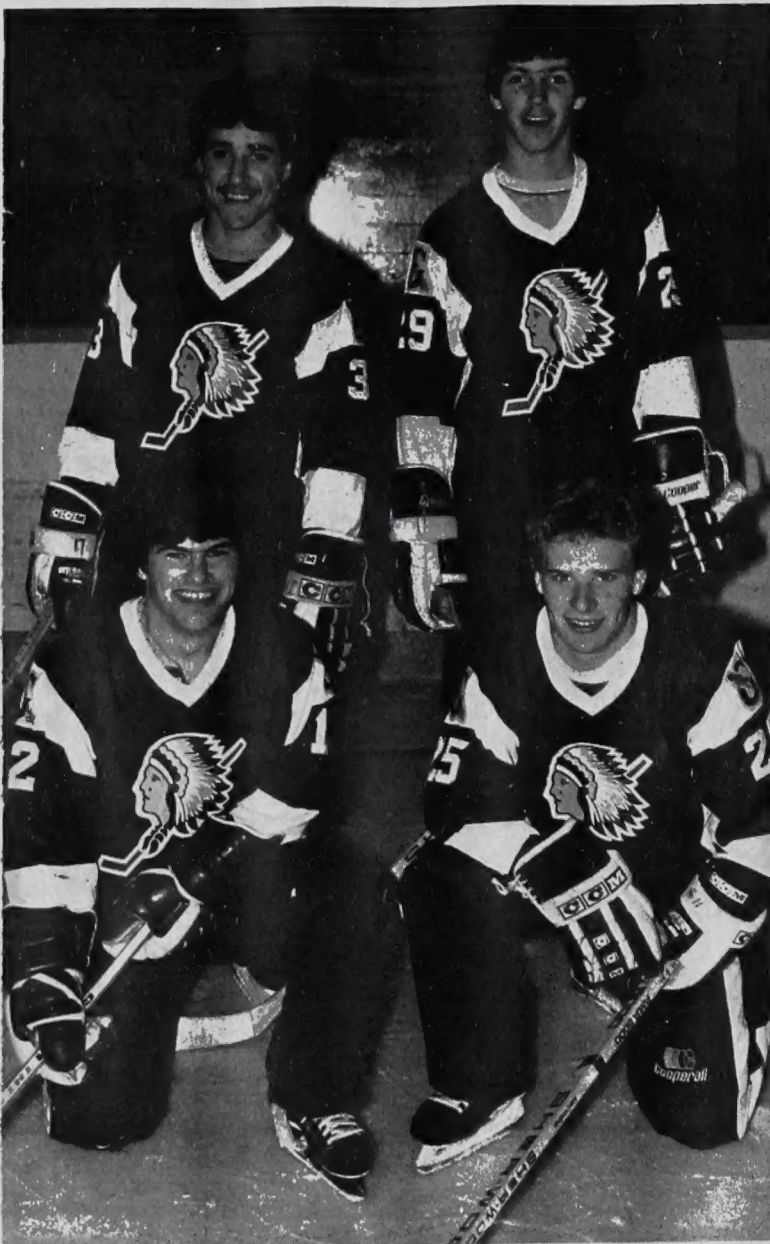

Close match

The action was less one-sided in the second game of the night, although for a time it appeared that Bishop and Wilson were on their way to an easy victory. Instead, they ended up on the short end of a 7 - 6 score, failing to add to their total after the 1:10 mark of the second period.

The surveyors opened the scoring at 3:46 of the first period as Rick Wood tallied with help from Greg Bishop and Bob Woodcock. Emmerson Lumber answered a little more than five minutes later when Darrin McGuinness scored with help from Gary Burtch.

Bishop and Wilson then netted five unanswered goals, moving into what appears to be a lead.

Four local hockey players have joined the Junior C Gravenhurst Indians this season, since the local Huskies withdrew due to a shortage of players. The four are Scott Mitchell, and Drew Bishop, standing; Kelly Mitchell and Mike MacNaull, kneeling.

Local players join Gravenhurst

The decision not to ice a Junior C hockey team in Haliburton this year due to a shortage of players left some local junior age players with no place to play, but a number of them have decided to look elsewhere for a chance to keep their skills sharp.

Greg and Colin Newell have found berths on a Junior C club in Lindsay, while Drew Bishop, Mike MacNaull, Kelly Mitchell and Scott Mitchell are playing for the Gravenhurst Indians of the Georgian Bay Junior C loop, the same loop in which the Huskies played until this season.

MacNaull, who played for the Huskies last year while still eligible for Juvenile hockey, went to Lindsay for a tryout earlier this fall when it was decided the Huskies could not ice a team for 1984-85. Kelly and Scott Mitchell headed north to work out with the Huntsville Junior C club. When the three players found out that Gravenhurst was holding open practices on Tuesday nights, they decided to try for a spot on that club. Drew Bishop was interested as well, and after one practice, the Gravenhurst coach asked all four players to sign.

Gravenhurst has now played eight games of the 32 scheduled in the regular season.

OMHA Bantams defeat Bobcaygeon

- Submitted -

The Haliburton OMHA Bantams recovered from a 3 - 1 deficit against Bobcaygeon last Friday night and came away with a 7 - 4 victory. The home team found themselves behind 2 - 0 after only 2 minutes and 31 seconds and trailed 3 - 2 at the end of two periods. They played average hockey during the first two periods and despite some good hitting appeared a little unorganized. Coach George Nicholls and assistant coach Bob Woodcock obviously emphasized team play before the third period as the team scored five consecutive goals in the final frame to Bobcaygeon's one.

Goaltender Gavin McKnight played a solid second half and the line of Erin Nicholls, Scott Russell and Brent Flood displayed some nifty team play in the third period while Jeff Warburton, Allen Rydman and Jaro Cooper played exceptionally throughout the game.

Collin Hunter, Ron Perrin and Darren Byers played very well both defensively and offensively. The goal scorers for Haliburton were Hunter from Nicholls and Russell, Warburton from Nicholls and Cooper, Warburton from Cooper and Rydman, Hunter from Nicholls, Russell from Nicholls, Russell from Nicholls, and Perrin unassisted.

The Bantams have a solid team this year and hope to have Drew Mitchell and Jeff Francis back in their line-up next Friday night when they take on Oakwood at the Haliburton arena. Game time is 8:30 p.m.

There was a good crowd last Friday and team supporters hope to see an even bigger crowd this coming Friday to see some fast, exciting hockey.

Atoms earn a split

The Haliburton Atoms split their weekend games.

On Friday night the Haliburton team hosted Fenelon Falls. Haliburton opened the scoring at the six-minute mark of the first period on a goal by Derek Wilson. Fenelon Falls tied it up at 3:16 of the second period. For the best part of the third period Haliburton did everything but put the puck in the net. Fenelon Falls netted the game winner with one minute remaining in the period.

On Monday night the Atoms made their first road trip of the year to Cannington and eventually came out the winners by a 4 - 3 margin.

Cannington opened the scoring at the two-minute mark of the first period. Jason Casey tied it up late in the period with assists going to Chad Bain and Mathew Williams.

In the second it was all Haliburton with Greg Stamp getting three assists on goals by Mike Billings, Derek Wilson and Jeff Black. Also figuring in the scoring was Reid Elstone with two assists.

Cannington scored two late in the third but Haliburton fought off the pressure and came away the winner.

The next league home game will be November 23 against Bobcaygeon.

Novice White get a shutout

Haliburton Novice White got their second shutout of the season on Saturday when they faced off against Bancroft #2. In a good all round effort, the Haliburton boys skated to a 9 - 0 victory.

Scoring in the first period were Kevin Morissette with two, assisted by Mark Morissette and David Harrison, and Mark Morissette, assisted by Jackie Morrison and Kevin Morissette.

Haliburton scored another in the second period off the stick of Kevin Morissette, assisted by Mark Morissette and Jackie Morrison.

Drop-In Centre News

By TERESA CONGDON

We have just printed the new "Drop-In Centre" pamphlet so why not come in and get one? Home Support also has their new pamphlet off the press.

Many of our 'Regulars' here at the Drop-In Centre are going south so they don't have to look at all the wonderful snow we are getting.

Laura Hartwick and everyone at the Centre wish to thank Pearl Tice, Vittoria Formica, and Berneice Stewart for all the lovely crafts such as baby outfits and other little things they made for the Haliburton Hospital. Thanks also to Ethel Gainsforth who made lovely quilts and the Salvation Army who donated bags of bright material. The Drop-In Centre also want to thank Laura. The Coffee and Crafts Morning will start again in the spring when Laura returns from Florida.

We now have a coupon box in the Drop-In Centre so if you have any coupons that you don't use come down and exchange them for some you will use.

Remember the "Art in the Hall" display will be changed soon so if you have any type of art you would like to have displayed in the Drop-In Centre or Home Support please contact Mary Walling at 457-2227 or Mary Barnett at 754-2846. At this I would like to welcome to the Art in the Hall convenors Stella Stinson. Welcome Stella.

Seniors club holds bazaar bake sale

By GLADYS REID

The Senior Citizens Club of Haliburton held a bazaar and bake sale on November 3 which was very successful.

First prize on the quilt draw was won by Ruby Francis of Gelert. Second prize, a tie-down quilt, was won by Jean Masters of Maple Lake, and a beautiful doll dressed and donated by Margaret McCarthy was won by Lorraine Harding.

Assisting in the draw was little Tammy Jardine, granddaughter of one of our most senior members, Lucy Noah.

The bazaar was convened by Eva Howe of Haliburton.

Wes and Kitty Baker of Haliburton had an unusual reason to celebrate on Saturday. The couple have been married 65 years. They were honoured by family and friends at a reception held at Haliburton Legion, and received a number of plaques and letters from government officials.

We have thoroughly enjoyed the "Art in the Hall" that has graciously decorated our halls for the past half year. All the art was done by seniors - such talent. We are now in the process of acquiring new art for our soon to be painted halls and offices. If you are a senior or disabled person would you kindly let us display your craft work here? It will be well taken care of and graciously admired by all. Please contact our office or bring in your art piece. Peggy Podmore, who has given time and energy as one of three convenors has found her other commitments too time-consuming to continue on as one of our "Art in the Hall" convenors. We thank her for her help. We welcome back as a member of our team Stella Stinson, who we know will do a super job. Our two other hard-working convenors are Mary Walling and Marg Barnett.

The next meeting of the Haliburton County Home Support Services will take place on Friday, November 16 at the Wilberforce Legion. It will be in the form of a dinner meeting commencing at 12 noon at a cost of $5 per person for the dinner. Guest speaker will be Ray Selbie. His topic will be "Wills". As our numbers will be limited please call our office at 457-2941 as soon as possible for dinner reservations. We will be accepting your reservation as a positive commitment as we must let the ladies who are catering our meal know one week in advance. Please call us no later than November 9.

Bus rides are available. A bus will leave from Cardiff Legion at 10:30 a.m., from Bower's Store, Highland Grove at 10:50 a.m. and from Harcourt Community Centre at 11:00 a.m. A return ride will be a flat rate of $2 per person which will be collected on the bus. Our thanks to Laura Stoughton who has kindly consented to be our bus driver and to Northernways Transit Limited for making the bus available to us.

Senior League

By BERT HARRISON

We welcome the Drysdale's back Saturday night to look after the games and see that everything goes right.

We welcome Corrie back to our location after undergoing a serious operation. Fred and Beth Parker came too, to help out you know. We don't play for money, but they brought along a tape that was really funny. It's always busy on weekends here about with relatives coming in to visit and others going out.

We were sorry to miss chapel service Sunday night. Please don't book me as a sinner. Our son came along with his father-in-law and we three went out to dinner.

We welcome Helen Lee back after a week's holiday. Things are rather quiet when Helen is away.

Monday morning down at fun and fitness we played games galore. Teddy Carr by knocking down the most bowling pins made the highest score.

We had our auxiliary meeting Monday night October 29. They always meet once a month to keep everything in line. Our auxiliary president Aileen Bleares has retired at the end of 1984, but we all think it's nice that she's staying on as vice president. Grace Coburn is our new president for 1985. We are sure she'll make a good one, very much alive.

Stan Bleares looks after the financial part and does a good job too.

I would like to tell my readers what we do with some of the money: $100 went to buy new Christmas decorations for this place, $600 to buy Christmas presents for all residents here, bringing some Christmas cheer. They look after the tuck shop each week for five days and help out here at Hyland Crest in many different ways.

I would also like to say our auxiliary secretary is Wanda Cater. She keeps the books right up to date, and there is no one any smarter. Then there is Carrie Drysdale; she does a good job too, makes sure we all pay up when our membership comes due.

We would like to thank Rev. John James from the Haliburton United Church for coming to our chapel and bringing a very interesting message from Psalm 90. Fred Ballard came again to play the music.

Doris showed us movies Tuesday afternoon. It was a very interesting show, The Commonwealth Arts and the Brooms of Mexico.

Tuesday night the Cox's came, Allan and wife Lyndell. The way they entertained us really was quite swell. Allan plays nice music and they sing so well together. Allan is a grandson of Annie Cox and brother of Wayne. This is the first time they have come to us. Please come back again.

The Brownie's serenaded us all dressed up for Halloween. Some were wearing costumes of different colours, others wearing green.

Our deepest sympathy from all here on this October day to the Dugan family for a lovely husband and father who has just passed away.

Well, Halloween is over for another year. The costumes some of the residents appeared in were really good. Lillie Hogg won third prize, Wilbert Sisson won second and first went to Amelia Good. Members of the staff who dressed up in costume, really were a sight. First prize was won by our own Arnie Wright. The Haliburton ladies of St. Anthony's Catholic Church came down this Wednesday, with lots of lovely sandwiches, cookies, tea, coffee and soft drinks. We thank them for coming.

We thank the bingo callers who came each Thursday night, much pleasure they do bring. This week it was Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Deacon and Murray King.

Friday afternoon our faithful came again to lead us down memory lane. We thank you for coming. Please come back again.

Did you know...that for several years the Canadian Foundation for World Development has been helping some of the poorest people in the world?

However, in order to do this, they urgently need your help in the collection of eyeglasses and hearing aids. These items are distributed to the Third World countries for the needy where they are supplied with the closest to fit their need and prescription.

Thousands of hours go into determining the prescription of the glasses and hearing aids donated, numbering each one and storing them for quick selection once their voluntary optometrists, opticians and ear specialists are in the field. So if you have any old eyeglasses, frames, lenses or hearing aids tucked away somewhere in your home, why not drop them into our office.

Words can't describe the joy and elation as each recipient has the privilege of discovering that he or she can now see clearly and hear properly. All this can be done with your help! For more information regarding this and many other subjects, why not drop in to your County Information Centre or give us a call at 457-2733. WINTER'S NEAR PRE-SNOW SALE

THE HONDA SNOWTHROWERS IT'S A HONDA

When the winter covers the ground with snow, uncover it with the help of a Honda snowthrower. The HS55. Or HS35.

Both models feature an adjustable chute and deflector that allows you to point the snow where you want it to go. Both have a reliable Honda four-stroke engine. With oversized mufflers so the noise level won't level your neighbours.

And there's also an easy-to-get-at control panel that lets you control levers and knobs while keeping your gloves on.

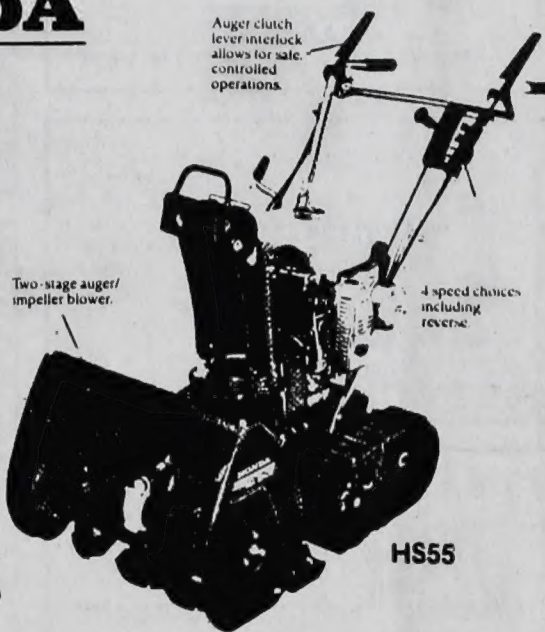

Honda's bigger model, the HS55 two-stage blower, has a few extras of its own. Like a ground hugging dual-track drive system that eliminates the need for tire chains. Four speed choices, including reverse. And a weight (under 80 kg) that's lighter than most models in its class.

If you want to move some snow this winter, see the HS55 or HS35 Honda snowthrower. Then come out singing. "Let it throw, let it throw, let it throw."

Country Road...Take me home...

It was Grandpa Palmer who got me so turned on to country life. I spent a couple of years with my grandparents as a young teenager. Of course, when one remembers way back when, they tend to romanticize away any difficulties incurred. Like the generation gap between senior citizens and a modern teen of the "1950's". But, on the whole, it was a pleasant period of my life that I recall with fondness.

Grandpa's farm was Shangri-la to me. In reality, it was fairly small. He had only four or five dairy cows at a time. They were very gentle, with soft, brown eyes, and they loved to have the back of their ears scratches. Sometimes I would follow Grandpa around just watching and listening. I learned you never get behind a cow (for various reasons), milking time must never be skipped, and the animals' well-being comes first on a farm. I saw calves born, and got to raise a bull calf of my own, only to discover where its ultimate destination led. That was one of my toughest lessons. Don't fall in love with a farm animal.

Behind the big old house, was a small apple orchard with about five mixed varieties. Beneath the trees were beehives. I was given some very explicit lessons on bee-keeping. It was wonderful in the spring, when the apple trees exploded with fragrant blossoms. My Grandpa took me down into the orchard one day to show me the bees swarming around a new queen in one of the trees. He stuck his arm up into the buzzing hoard, and brought it down covered with bees. I was in awe that he wasn't stung. He gave me my first taste of honeycomb, taught me not to panic around bees, but also not to ever disturb the hives.

He had a sugar bush too. Every spring, he would disappear for hours. He never took me there. But he did bring me a taste of maple sap, and, of course, we always had that lovely warm maple syrup for breakfast.

Grandpa was a much better teacher than those in the school. He milked by hand, and showed me the reasons for the importance of pasteurization. I got a first-hand demonstration of why it's called "hay-fever", and why farmers who don't wear face masks when they grind oats, sometimes end up with bad lungs. I learned that much of farm work is hard, back-breaking labour. That rain or shine, good health or bad, the cows get milked, the animals get fed, and the barns get cleaned. And I learned that someday, I wanted to live like him.

In reality, dreams get lost, or side-tracked. I was a long time making mine come true. But fate was with me, and all Grandpa's lessons weren't lost. Then, of course, when he got through with me, he turned me over to Grandma. She had her own classes in the kitchen. But, that's another story.

NOVEMBER 11TH

The cenotaph;
The two-minute silence.
The bugle calls
The medals shine, poppies gleam
On men
Who many years ago
Did to the wars go,
What memories stir in their hearts
And remember those who did not return.
The silver-cross Mother
Who bravely bore the loss
Of that blue-eyes boy,
Lays her poppies at the cross
The years roll back
He stands beside her in prayer.

Coboconk News

By SHEILA LAKE

I hope you got a kick out of Hallowe'en, as we did with many little callers. I never heard of any vandalism here and that is great because it really is a fun night for children and we hear so much about bad things, it's good to know our local little people were well behaved.

I'm sure each one of us feels, at times that life or our job is so routine. I came across this little verse the other day and it brings home the fact, we should all take time to stop! and smell the roses!

If your nose is held to the grindstone rough
And you hold it down there long enough,
Soon you'll say there's no such thing

As brooks that babble and birds that sing.
Three things will all your world compose
Just you, the grindstone and your darned old nose!

Our local seniors do not fit the above category - but get out and enjoy their weekly card game at our community hall. Winners in the past week's euchre are: ladies - Inga Wassel, 78; Mildred Jewell, 75; most lone hands, Thelma Adams, 4; consolation, Laura Irvine, 48.

Gents: Enice Kingdon, 75; Douglas Taylor, 70; most lone hands, Ken Bowins, 3; Consolation, Ben Farrow, 43; bridge: Vi Gange, 4930; Jack Barker, 4610; consolation, Al Corneilus, 980.

Congratulations to a couple of seniors who have birthdays this weekend. Lillian Tufts is 87 today, November 3; Mary Wilkinson is 89 on November 5. They are two very dear seniors who are still active and live in their own homes.

Mrs. Ruth Hall and daughter, Cindy McCaul, of Lindsay visited with Sam and Millie Routley last week.

Thane and Terry Yeo journeyed to Toronto on Thursday evening to pay their respects to the family of their late 18-year old niece who died of cancer after a brief illness. Our sympathy to the family.

John Miller belts out a lively, toe-tapping song at a concert at Haliburton high school Saturday night while members of the Highlands Dixie Band supply the instrumental accompaniment. The concert raised more than $600 to aid villagers in India.

Several of our young people are home for a few weeks due to the community college teachers' strike.

Many hunters moved in to camp on the weekend. Bains and Barrys, Sissons and Nicholls and Coopers, to name a few. Rodney Sisson got a buck first thing on Monday morning.

George and Shereen Cooper are home for the two weeks of hunting season.

Jean Henderson spent the weekend in Ottawa at a B'hai conference.

The seventh annual St. Andrew's Day Concert is approaching. Scottish dancing, singing and piping will make up a large part of the programme. Proceeds from donations at the door go to St. Andrew's Church.

Ruth and Ken Sawyer have gone south for the winter.

Sympathy of the community to Ken and Carl in the loss of their brother, Stan Sawyer.

Louise Cooper spent the weekend with friends in Wilfordale, Helen and Allan Cooper.

Recreation Centre activity continues apace: Bingo every Monday, dances on the third Saturday and a "dry" but nonetheless enjoyable party which the whole family can attend, the first Saturday of every month. Executive at the present includes Perry Morrison, Carol Stamp, Bert Cowen, Mary Simms and Gail Medcalf. Most of these names should have been included in the list of hunters as well. Some of them have been known to partake of the sport!

Despite the rain last Sunday the Metro Santa Claus parade turned out well. It won't be long to Christmas now. After the parade Christmas seems to slip up too soon for the slow shoppers like me.

Sincere sympathy to the family and friends of Mary Doreen Wilbee whose funeral was last Saturday. We wish the deer hunters the best of luck this week but be sure you know what the gun is pointed at before you pull that trigger. Have an accident-free hunt.

Household hint...Grease: To remove grease in shirts and pants rub shortening or lard on the spots and wash with warm soapy water.

Charlie Palmer visited friends in Lindsay last week. Don't forget the Thrift Shop at St. Paul's Anglican Church on Friday, November 9 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Happy 37th anniversary to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Packard on Wednesday, November 7.

Sheila McNeil of Burnt River was the winner of the stained glass panel on ticket No. 263 on the ACW draw at St. Paul's.

Last Thursday afternoon card party winners were the following: lone hands, Flo Dollo; others were Pearl Cowan, Charles Beharrell, Dora Dawson and Bob Mitchell.

Charlie Palmer, Mary McDuff and Paul's girlfriend dropped in for a few minutes last Saturday.

Don't forget the movies at the Library/Cultural Centre on Friday, November 9 from 7:15 to 8:15 for the children.

Mary-Lou and Jennifer Packard of Haliburton visited with us last Sunday.

Thought for the day. Maturity of mind is best shown by slow belief.

A belated happy anniversary to Leroy and Pat Lichty. Sincere sympathy to the family and friends of Stanley Sawyer.

Recipe for the week. Tomato Aspic. 2 cups tomato juice, 1 - 3 ounce package of lemon Jello powder, 1/2 teaspoon granulated sugar and a dash of cayenne pepper. Heat tomato juice, dissolve lemon Jello powder in it. Add sugar and cayenne pepper. Pour into mold, chill. Unmold on lettuce to serve. I

Would you like to be part of a quilt? My mother who has been a busy lady all of her life now wants to make another "friendship quilt" but to do so needs help. If you have a 12" X 12" piece of cotton, rayon, whatever (it doesn't matter what colour) and if you'd print or write your name, address, your birthdate, draw a little picture, anything you like, mom will either paint or fancywork it and it will be one more friend in her quilt. She's made many over the years and has received cards from different parts of the world along with squares for her project. It is a lovely way to meet new people. If interested give her a call at 454-8182.

She made one for me years ago for Christmas and I find myself quite often studying the names and wondering what they are doing today. Some, I know, have passed on and then the memories take over.

Art and Bernice King of Welland were most welcome guests of Dora and Bill Lilley at their Norland home last week. Which local gentleman is this I hear of, who turned up late and in a hurry to a Legion meeting last week wearing two different shoes? He spent the rest of the evening trying to hide one foot behind the other.

Overheard at the Kinvale Restaurant last Monday morning over coffee - two men talking over their fishing/hunting experiences: One man said that in this area just recently he'd caught five, six, seven and eight pound pickerel and then went on to tell about the really huge one that got away.

We are enjoying the company of Mame Campbell once again who has returned from Toronto. Mame phoned home to Miami, Florida, for a visit with her son Scott and this paper will be sent on to him so may we all congratulate you Scott, on your recent commendations as a Miami police officer. Your Canadian family are all proud of you.

Did you notice more adults out with the children for Hallowe'en this year? Sad, isn't it? What have we come to that our youngsters aren't even safe anymore?

Well kids, I have just come in from our post office (Thursday a.m.) and I'm so proud of all our goblins, etc. There wasn't a mark to be seen anywhere I looked. No soap, eggs, nothing! Thank you for being respectful on your night to howl.

Results of the Galway Wednesday euchre: men's high: Leon Wright, men's low: Karl Alzner, ladies' high: Joyce Wright, ladies' low: Pat Booth, most lone hands: Bob Allen.

What a Thursday in Kinmount. It was dull, windy, rainy, hydro was off all over the place and there was a fire at the house below the theatre on highway 121. Many people were down town anyway and it was pleasant having a chat with some of them.

If you're missing a small blue mitten you can pick it up at the post office in Kinmount.

crease. With the price it is now, who needs that? We were lucky in this area in not having more than a few flakes of snow, where some of the surrounding communities had enough to cover the ground, if only temporarily.

The weather stayed nice for Hallowe'en, which made it nice for the trick and treaters. A lot of the costumes showed the results of great imagination and hard work. Five young ladies who came in together were outstanding and I wanted to get their picture. But wouldn't you know it, the flash wouldn't work, so I was foiled on that score.

We are happy to welcome

Bea Seedhouse home after spending some time in Huntsville Hospital. We hope that she will soon be back to a state of perfect health.

The annual Christmas Bazaar will be held on Wednesday, December 5 in the Dorset Community Centre at 7 p.m. This event is sponsored by the Dorset Girl Guide company and the ACW. There will be lots of Christmas baking, knitted goods, craft work, Christmas decorations, a fish pond and a nearly new table. There will also be tea tables to give you a chance to refresh during the evening. There will be lots of gift suggestions so keep it in mind when doing your shopping and selecting your gifts.

There will not be a foot clinic in December; the November clinic will be on Wednesday, the 21st.

Get well wishes are sent in abundance to Kate MacKay who has been a patient in Huntsville for the past week.

I haven't heard of any scandals that I can spice the news up with but would appreciate a phone call if you have had company, been on a trip or anything of interest. 766-2237.

H.H. Natural bug-off. Place a bay leaf on every shelf of your kitchen cupboard and inside each drawer. All types of insects will stay clear.

Why the home on the left shouldn't be heated like the home on the right.

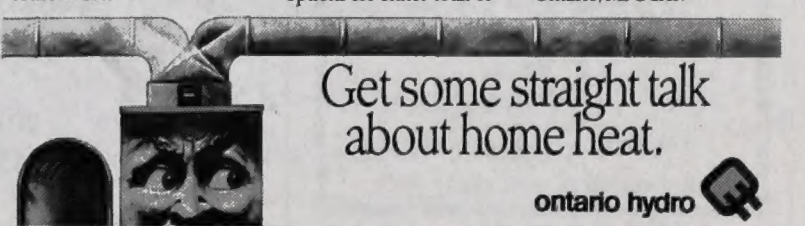

On the left? Bill and Kim, the twins, baby Sarah. They've revitalized their furnace with an electric plenum heater; it's one of the most economical ways to cut winter fuel bills. And they've turned the drafty old attic room into a warm nursery with insulation and inexpensive, easy-to-install baseboard heaters. There's a separate thermostat, so baby's room can be kept at exactly the right temperature without overheating the rest of the house.

On the right? Mike and Stella-empty-nesters. They've installed an add-on electric heat pump to help save money and heat their home in winter and they're looking forward to the comfort of air conditioning next summer. It was easy to add, cuts their heating costs and adds to the value of their home.

Electric heat provides home-owners with many options for either total or partial conversion. Whatever your needs, there's an electric system that's just right to help you cut costs, without cutting corners on comfort. Once you understand the flexibility of electric heat, other heats just don't look so hot.

Write to Ontario Hydro and ask for your free booklet about satisfied families who installed electric heat. Ontario Hydro, 620 University Avenue, Dept. U4E3 Toronto, Ontario, M5G 1X6.

Gooderham News

By MARY HADLEY

During 1984 the people of Ontario have been celebrating their history, traditions, and development. They have reflected on the efforts and accomplishments of many outstanding citizens who have contributed much to the building of our fair province.

From among the many who have made such contributions, 1984 have been chosen to receive a Bicentennial medal, a replica of which has been presented to Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth.

One such recipient is Theo Peacock, the "Haliburton Trapper". He was nominated by the Glamorgan Council, partly because he was the author of "Tales of the Trail", a book of woodland poetry, and also because of the monetary support for our local library from the sale of this book. In the foreword he dedicates it to the boys and girls of North American both present and future.

Theo has received a letter from the Premier of Ontario, the Hon. Wm. Davis, advising him that he has been chosen as a recipient of this medal in acknowledgement of his contribution to our community.

This is a high honour and we in this area are proud that a local citizen has been one out of 1984 to be so recognized.

The presentation will take place early in December.

We extend our congratulations to Theo on receiving such a well-deserved honour.

Glorious fall weather prevailed on the last day of October when the Glamorgan Senior Citizens' Club sat down at 12:30 for their pot luck dinner.

In keeping with the day five members wore Hallowe'en costumes - humorous or pretty.

Grace was asked by Gwen

Taylor after which all enjoyed the plentiful and varied casseroles and desserts, including a chocolate cake decorated in orange and black, showing the artistic skill of Peggy Dermott.

Since Ivan Hunter was absent, Fred Vanderland conducted the meeting. He reminded the group of the Christmas dinner on December 5 at 1 p.m. in the Centre at a cost of $6 a person.

Thanks were expressed to Ileen Hunter, food convenor for October.

Bridge, darts or chatting concluded a pleasant afternoon.

A turkey shoot, sponsored by the South Algonquin Fish and Game Club was held last Saturday at Highland Grove. Congratulations to Ed Taylor who won a turkey at this event.

An unfortunate accident occurred last Wednesday. Mr. Trackanelli, of Cambridge, was using a tractor to draw some wood at his cottage on the Bear Lake Road. Apparently it overturned on the rough terrain. He was later found pinned under it.

He is survived by two daughters and one son, his wife having predeceased him.

The funeral was held last Monday at Espanola.

Norma Craftchick and Mark Parnell were married in the Gooderham United Church last Saturday evening. Maurice Bradley officiated at the ceremony. A dance followed in the Community Centre. We extend congratulations and best wishes for future happiness.

Our community was saddened on Wednesday evening to hear that a much respected citizen, Bob Fotheringham, had passed away in the Haliburton Hospital at the age of 66 years.

Bob was a baker for 38 years - 24 in Toronto and 14 in Fenelon Falls. His products, especially bread and Christmas cake, were much in demand.

He was a faithful servant of Glamorgan Township for 18 years - as member of council from 1962 to 1968; deputy-reeve from 1969 to 1972; and reeve from 1973 to November 1980. He was proud of the plaque presented to him by the Glamorgan council and staff at a dinner in 1980 in recognition of 18 years of service.

During his term of office he designed the Glamorgan Township letterhead which has been reduced in size for our township pin.

He was also county warden in 1973 and did much in preparing for the county centennial in 1974. In that year Theo Peacock's "Tales of the Trail" had its second publication. Bob, as reeve, wrote the introductory message in the book.

He was a member and loyal supporter of the Gooderham United Church.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, the former Norma Whitcombe, one son, Leslie, and a brother, David, of Bramalea.

Funeral services were held in the United Church on Saturday afternoon. Maurice Bradley spoke of Bob's talents and service with the disappointment and frustration of being unable to fulfil his retirement plans due to ill health. His passing was a happy release from his suffering.

Interment took place in the Glamorgan Cemetery. Pall bearers were: Dallyn Pickens, Elgin MacDuff, Bob McCausland, Ken Maguire, Blair Hanthorn and Douglas Hancock, a long time friend from Toronto.

Our community extends deepest sympathy to the sorrowing family.

The Minden Minor Hockey will be holding their general meeting on Wednesday, November 7 at 7:30 p.m. at the firehall.

There didn't seem to be too much damage done on Hallowe'en except the writing all over everything in sight.

That's all for this week. I hope to see you all next week.

Mrs. Shirley Edmunds of Niagara Falls spent the past week with her sister Mrs. Francis Thomas and will be spending a few weeks with other relatives in the area. Albert Davies of Kirkfield also was a visitor with the Thomases.

Mrs. Edith Russell, Dee Jennings and Mr. and Mrs. Grant Montgomery of Hall's Lake, and Mr. and Mrs. MaxMcKay spent the week task for turning a blind eye to the callous tactics of the local collectors, it's doubtful that Beatty's boys will be anything but cordial and polite in their dealings with the public.

After the Tory task force completed their Canadian tour and gathered evidence of some pretty heavy handed practices by over-zealous taxmen, Beatty pledged that a Tory government would never allow the situation to repeat itself.

This week, Beatty told us there will be no quota system for taxmen to follow and there will be no rewards for those who put the squeeze on honest workers who, for legitimate reasons, got behind in their payments.

Beatty promises his taxmen will be fair. Let's hope they have learned a hard lesson under the Liberals and set their sights on those who deserve a rough ride.

Norland Natter

By KELLY GRAHAM

I hope you all had a safe and happy Hallowe'en.

Last week Mrs. Olivia Detlor had Mrs. Frances Ottenbrite, of Whitby, visiting with her for a few days at her home in Norland. Mrs. Ottenbrite is the mother of Canadian Olympic gold medal swimmer Anne Ottenbrite. She says Anne is now studying sports-psychology at the University of Southern California. She does, however, plan to return to Canada to swim with our national swim team, this spring.

The Women's Institute in Coboconk is holding a Christmas tea and bake sale on Thursday, November 15.

The sale will be held at the Women's Institute Hall in Coboconk.

There will also be a ceramic and craft display at the Norland community hall. The display, which will be held on Sunday, November 18, might be a good place to pick up some early Christmas gifts.

There was a surprise birthday and combined housewarming party for Kim Burton and Terry Janke, of Norland. The party was held on Saturday, November 3. Happy 22nd birthday to Kim.

Due to a phone breakdown I was unable to obtain the euchre and bridge scores and the hockey pool winner.

Congratulations to Patrick Jones, a student at Fenelon Falls Secondary School, who won $55,555 in a Provincial draw on October 26. He purchased the lucky ticket at J'n B's Variety in Fenelon Falls.

Congratulations to the Junior Fenelon Falls Secondary School football team who defeated Haliburton Highlands Secondary School to capture the Kawartha West Championship. The team has not won this title since 1973. An age-old rivalry has finally been put to rest. Rest in peace Haliburton - way to go Falcons and good luck in Peterborough next Friday as you go on to play Crestwood.

There will be a Remembrance Day Service at the Coboconk Legion at 10:45 Sunday, November 11.

Jackie and Allen Scott have been chosen by the Kawartha Children's Aid Society as Parents of the Month. This couple has had years of experience in caring for foster children. It is fitting that appreciation has been shown for their work in this worthy cause. Jackie and Allen have been rewarded with a dinner for two at Jeff Purvey's in Peterborough.

The Monmouth Senior Citizens Club meets every Tuesday at 12:30 at the Lloyd Watson Centre. Lunch is served and members enjoy friendly conversation while knitting or doing other types of needle work. Card games and carpet bowling are favourite pastimes. President of the Club is Gerald Schackleton. His wife Bessie shares the duties of secretary with Vicki Agnew. They are always happy to welcome new members.

From the Remembrance

Day Service programme of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 624 comes this message: 'Lest We Forget' - In this year of our joyous celebration, let us take time to remember our veterans and their relatives and to commemorate the memory of the past residents who paid so dearly, that we are so free to enjoy not only our lives in Monmouth, but our lives as Canadians.

On Sunday, Nov. 11 a service will be held at the Memorial in Wilberforce Village. After the service everyone is invited to gather at the Legion Hall where lunch will be served.

At the Legion Hall on Friday, November 9 a turkey roll will be held starting at 7:30 p.m.

We had a phone call from Jim Miller who lives in Gem, Alberta. Jim wanted any news of his old home town. He is still involved in speech therapy to control stuttering. He has found that an emotional upset can cause a relapse and that a daily awareness of the problem is necessary to help one cope with the situation. He has attended classes in Edmonton where he enjoyed mixing with others who share his ideas. His family are all in good health. He found it hard to believe our story of balmy October weather. In Alberta they have suffered 20 below freezes and two feet of snow.

The new addition to the Goody Bake Shop (old fire hall) has been going ahead at a great rate. The building construction is headed by Clem Peters. When completed the premises will include a complete restaurant.

Good news for all you curlers. The ice is ready and actions begins on Saturday, November 10 when a wine and cheese party will get things going. The evening will include fun and games, dancing and the drawing up of teams for the coming season. It's all free too and starts at 8:00 p.m.

Farm News

Buckthorn is still thriving in Victoria County and across Central Ontario. As a result most farmers find it impossible to grow milling quality oats. It's these milling quality oats that have a ready market at Quaker Oats in Peterborough, and that can give a good financial return to the farmer growing them. As long as Buckthorn shrubs grow in most fence-rows and along roadways, farmers will continue to have difficulty growing oats, since the Buckthorn is the alternate host for oat rust.

While Buckthorn is fairly easy to identify at any time, the best time to quickly and easily spot it is right now. The leaves on almost every other kind of tree and wild shrub have either fallen off or turned colour by the end of October. Buckthorn leaves are still dark green and are almost all still on the branches.

So when you look at the shrub growth in a fence row and along a roadway this week, if there are any shrubs with dark green leaves still on the branches, that will most likely be a Buckthorn shrub. Some wild apples may still have a few leaves on, and lilac bushes have light green leaves still attached.

A number of property owners have wondered whether or not they have any Buckthorn growing - take a walk this week and you'll know.

Buckthorn is classed as a Noxious Weed under the Weed Control Act. That means property owners can be forced to control it by the Weed Inspector. But it can be controlled voluntarily.

Check your property for shrubs with dark green leaves still on the branches this week - that's probably Buckthorn. Information on how to control Buckthorn is available from your County Agricultural Office.

made with the consent and approval of all agencies and parties affected.

Council agreed to absorb the material costs of the installation of a permanent aerial at the Minden Community Centre by the Minden Amateur Radio Club, as approved by Resolution No. 84-34 of the Minden Recreation Committee. The cost will be approximately $70 and will be borne by the property department. It is understood that the aerial will be used for the establishment of a dispatch and communication centre only in case of an emergency.

Richard Kirkwood, Jean Bowron and Kenneth Bowron were appointed to the Minden Museum Committee for the balance of 1984.

Committee chairman Dave Stevens reported some concern over non-resident use of the Scotch Line landfill site. A general discussion ensued regarding possible methods of control, but it was agreed that such methods would be too costly to implement. Dave Stevens reported that a large sign showing both summer and winter hours would be installed at this site in the near future.

Winter dumping hours at the Scotch Line Landfill Site were set at 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. daily commencing November 1, 1984. The dump site will be closed on Christmas and New Year's Day.

The following accounts were approved: general, $27,490.58; water, $11,113.; and sewer, $2,473.36.

By-law 84-30 to appoint a payroll accounting clerk was passed.

By-law 84-31 to set remuneration for the deputy clerk treasurer was passed. A by-law to assume Bissett Court into municipal road system was passed.

Boundary Information Centre accounts were approved in the amount of $694.57, as presented.

All minor tax balances (up to $1.50) on record at September 30, 1984, in the total amount of $44.59, were written off.

Applications No. 11-84 to 26-84 inclusive drawn pursuant to Section 496 of the Municipal Act were approved in the total amount of $997.96.

Council approved the order of general and tax receipt systems from McBee for 1985 at a total cost of $1,037.91.

Emmerson in lead

peared to be a comfortable 6-1 lead.

Scoring for the surveyors were Wood from Jim Wynn, Wynn from Wood, Wynn from Wood and Bishop, Woodcock from Wood, and in the second period, Ken Riley from Wood.

Emmerson Lumber began to respond at the half-way point of the second period, and from then on they held the surveyors at bay.

Rob Abbs started the comeback with help from Burch, then Steve Roberts added two more, one un-sisted and the other aided by Abbs.

In the third period Pat Wilson scored with help from Paul Howe and Steve Roberts, and Phil Barry got the tying marker with help from Howe.

The goal that proved to be the winner for Emmerson Lumber came with 9:11 left on the clock as Kim Emmerson found the mark, assisted by Abbs and Wilson.

Only one penalty was assessed in the game, a tripping infraction against Bishop and Wilson in the third period.

season, and has a record of four wins, one tie and three losses.

Despite the long drive to Gravenhurst for practices and weekend games, the four players are determined to complete the season. And since they are on waivers from the Huskies, they will be able to rejoin the local team if it can be revived next year, something team supporters say will almost certainly happen.

NOTICES

ST. ANTHONY'S HAS A WINNER Early in the spring the finishing touches went into the queen-sized Bluebird quilt by a dedicated group of women at St. Anthony's Church. Basically that is the easy part. Months of selling tickets by most members of the parish finally ended with the draw on November 1 at the Bingo night. The results of the draw were as follows: 1st prize, the Bluebird Quilt, was won by Ray Gervais of R.R. #1, Haliburton with winning ticket number 450, 2nd prize of $25.00 was won by Mrs. Edna Nichol of R.R. #2, Haliburton with ticket 965, and Eva Cresswell of Markham owning ticket number 1373 won the hand-crocheted shawl. The funds raised by this effort will go toward improvements that are needed by the church as well as payment toward the Building Fund. The parish of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church thanks everyone who supported the raffle and congratulates the winners. 25-B-7
